

A black and white illustration showing a microscope on the left, with light rays emanating from its eyepiece. To the right of the microscope is a stack of books. In the foreground, there is a large, open book or a shallow box. The entire scene is set against a dark, textured background.

PRICE THREE CENTS.

Rutland County.

NORTH PAWLET.
The first wedding in this place since 1840 has been known by its present name was celebrated Thursday morning, Dec. 18, at the residence of Marshal Brown, Esq. The parties were Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Brown and Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Brown.

parties most nearly interested were Mr. Theodore G. Batchelder of Dorset and Miss Henrietta A. Alexander of Pawlet, who were united in marriage by the Rev. C. J. Mott. The entertainment was profuse yet elegant, the company select though rather numerous, and the occasion greatly enjoyed by all present. This reporter regrets his inability to give an inventory of the rich and costly bridal presents. The

The signs of the times indicate more occasions of the same kind.

WEST PAWLET.

The Baptist church in this place are holding a series of evening services which are well attended. Mr. Archibald, an undergraduate of Hamilton college of Ontario,

The signs of the times indicate more occasions of the same kind.

WEST PAWLET.

The Baptist church in this place are holding a series of evening services which are well attended. Mr. Archibald, an undergraduate of Hamilton college of Ontario,

At an oyster supper, held at the Academy Hall Dec. 17, over $80 was collected, which is to be used for the purchase of furniture for the church.

The potato trade is quite brisk, prices ranging from 50¢ to 55¢ per bushel.

Chester.

WHAT THEY SAY.

That we are having an Indian winter? That, although there is not much over half a foot of snow on the ground, the sleighing never was better?

The potato trade is quite brisk, prices ranging from 50¢ to 55¢ per bushel.

Chester.

WHAT THEY SAY.

That we are having an Indian winter? That, although there is not much over half a foot of snow on the ground, the sleighing never was better?

That Frank Hadley, Porter and another gentlemen went to "Derry" pond one day last week, cut some little holes in the ice and returned home with $18 worth of pick-erel, figuring at the lowest fish rates? That your correspondent is a liar because he started in one of his little squibs last week, that it was Mr. P. H. Robbins' house that was entered by the burglar, it was an error. He should have stated, the burglar

That the Firemen's Ball at Pollard's Hall upon Tuesday night, was all very right, about 60 couples being present and besides

That J. N. Mead and Warren Hale have bought or rather now own by reason of foreclosure, the real estate known as the henery, situate on Grafton street, consideration, $130. Said property has a history which should be written up and shelved with other hen coop literature. It has always been a human habitation, originally cost about $18, was once painted inside and outside and the bill was $3.50, has always, with exception of a very short period, been owned by two or more parties, all of whom have been our heavy capitalists. It is doubtful if the company of this roost is worth its room, for you could raise a peck of ruttu-begga turnips from the

That States Attorney Johnson is liberal in making up his account current against certain landlords, discounting $400 on a bill of $640. He is the man to trade with. Give us your quotations often Mr. Attorney?

Otter Creek Valley Teachers' Association.

The tenth semi-annual meeting of the Otter Creek Valley Teachers' Association will meet at Pittsford on Friday and Saturday, December 26th and 27th, 1872:

PROGRAMME.

FRIDAY.

104 a.m.—Organization.

11 a.m.—Discussion, "The Public School in its relation to Public Morals." Judah Dana, Rutland; Otis S. Johnson, Wallingford.

14 p.m.—Address, "Little Things," Elias Gould, Bennington.

23 p.m.—Discussion, "Modern School Work as related to the development of thought in the pupil." A. E. Leavenworth, New Haven; D. C. Mead, Middlebury.

24 p.m.—Address, "Social Culture." Rev. M. J. O'Brien, Otis.

9 a m—Discussion, "Physical Culture."
Dr C L Case, Brandon; Henry Clark, Rude Land.
7 p m—Address, Rev C C Torrey, Charlotte.
SATURDAY.
9 a m—Conference meeting.
10 a m—Discussion, "English Grammar."
R G Williams, Castleton; H H Shaw, Manchester.
11 a m—Address, "The School System of Vermont." Edward Conant, Randolph.

14 p m—Election of officers, and other business.
2 p m—Essay, "Music." Miss M Dana, Rutland.
2 1/2 p m—Discussion, "Elocution." Rev H M Holmes, Benson.
3 p m—Address, Prof J E Goodrich, Burlington.

Fashion Notes.

In dress material, marine blue is one of the fashionable colors.

Black velvet sleeveless sacques will be fashionable this winter.

Small lobe ear-rings are fashionable, those of pearl especially.

Black lace scarfs about the neck are the substitutes for collars.

Undressed kid gloves are worn by ladies on shopping excursions.

Once more the hair is worn low on the neck—the latest Paris fashion.

Alligator leather is superseding the Russian for ladies' belts and traveling satchels.

It is asserted that bracelets are rapidly going out of fashion, and in a few months will seldom be seen.

The old-fashioned low slipper is coming into vogue again. They have fanciful bows of leather or ribbon.

For the ladies' line, the new colored stockings are beginning to wear colored stockings.

Ladies are beginning to use colored starch for their ruffs, as did the beauties of the court of good Queen Bess.

Brides now wear two veils, a short one over the face, and a long one depending from the wreath down the back.

Many of the new bonnets are simply trimmed with one long feather curling over the crown and falling down the back.